Domestic butter demand is steady across all three regions. Export demand varies from steady to strong. Spot cream loads are tighter in some parts of the country. Spot cream demand from butter manufacturers varies from steady to stronger. Butter production schedules are mixed but are generally busier in the West region. Some stakeholders are more actively seeking open capacity for micro-fixing butter inventories. Spot loads are available for 80 or 82 percent butterfat buyers. Bulk butter overages range from 3 below to 5 above market across all regions.
